

Blessed Sacrament Catholic School

Think of your favorite book. Persuade a friend to read it. 	Read a book about someone who made a change.	GPS directions are forms of Nonfiction Procedural Texts. Pick a destination, and go for a ride! Turn the sound off on the gps, and read the directions out loud to your driver! 	Use your context clue strategies! Find 3 new vocabulary words in the book you are reading, and find their definition. Use the new words in a sentence.	Choose a nonfiction book. Write a 5-sentence summary.
Read a fiction book. How does the main character change in the story? What lesson do they learn? How does that lesson apply to you in your own life?	Think of a book that you've read that would make a good movie. Explain to someone why you think it would make a good movie. 	<h3 style="margin: 0;">Third Grade Choice Board</h3> 	Read a nonfiction book. What is the most important idea the author wants you to learn? How does the message of the book make you think about your own life?	Read a book set in a different country.
Choose a book you have read. Think about the title. Is it a good title for the book? If so, what makes it a good title? If not, come up with a better title, and explain why it's better.	Read a fiction book. Describe 2 personality traits the main character exhibits. 	Read a book about a real person (biography). 	Instructions are a form of Nonfiction Procedural Text. Read the instructions to build or make something, and follow the steps!	Read a nonfiction book. What did you already know about the topic before you read the book? What are 3 new things you learned?
Recipes are a form of Nonfiction Procedural Text. Find a recipe, and make it! 	Go for a walk outside, and tell a family member about the book you read today. Don't forget to include all the important details in your summary!	Read a fiction book. Find 3 examples of descriptive language - vivid words that make you picture a movie in your mind! Write the examples down, and draw a picture to illustrate each one!	Read a book about an animal. Draw a picture of the animal, and display it somewhere in your home. 	Game rules are a form of Nonfiction Procedural Text. Read all the rules of a game, and play!

Choose one square a week to complete. You must have at least 6 by the First Day of School.
A parent or guardian must initial the square after you have completed the activity.